Forecast for Thursday 28 Jan 2021

Weather: Heavy rain will continue until late in the night before turning lighter towards daybreak. Any light rain clearing soon after dawn the cloud breaking to allow a sunnier interlude around the middle of the day. Cloud increasing again later with some heavy rain for a few hours from dusk to early evening, then cloud breaking again later.

Chance of cloud free mountain/hill tops above 700m: No chance at first improving 80% around the middle of the day, little chance in evening rain then improving towards midnight.

Visibility: Poor during the rainy spells when cloud well down the hills especially in early hours with bases below 300m. Good visibility around the middle of the day and late evening with cloud broken or well broken and just the odd patch at 750m.
